

Plays for the Coming Week

MONDAY NIGHT.
Hudson Theatre, "Nemesis."

THURSDAY NIGHT.
Manhattan Opera House—Margaret Anglin in "The Iphigenia in Aulis."

At the Hudson Theatre on Monday night George M. Cohan will present "Nemesis," a drama by Augustus Thomas. Incidental to the domestic triangle, the play is an argument against the infallibility of the finger-print system in the detection of criminals. The cast includes Emmett Corrigan, Olive Tell, Pedro De Cordoba, Eleanor Woodruff, John Craig, Marie Goff, Roland Bottomley, Ethel Wintrop and Robert Cummings.

Margaret Anglin will present "The Iphigenia in Aulis" of Euripides at the Manhattan Opera House on Thursday night and Friday afternoon. For this Greek tragedy Walter Damrosch has provided a musical setting. The theme is the conflict between reverence for Duty and parental affection. The production will be on an elaborate scale, with chariots, horses, soldiers, slaves and dancers. Miss Anglin is to play Clytemnestra. In the supporting cast are Mary Fowler, Merle Alcock, Eugene Powers, Harry Barfoot, Sydney Mather, Ralph Roeder, Bathsheba Askwith, Byron Folger, Moran Olsen and Milton J. Bernd.

Norman Trevor has arranged performances of Oscar Wilde's comedy "An Ideal Husband" at the Fulton Theatre to-morrow night and Monday afternoon in aid of the endowment fund of the Post-Graduate Hospital. With Mr. Trevor will be Richard Rainier, Echlin Gayer, Anne Meredith, Merle Muddern, Mrs. Betty Ward and others.

Alexander, "The Man Who Knows," comes to the Bronx Opera House. The performance includes crystal gazing, magic and dances of the Far East.
